SUE SCHLABACH

Sue Schlabach lives and works in rural Vermont where she and her family are renovating an old brick house. She loves the act of making things, whether art, food, gardens, photographs or textiles. She studied painting and photography in the late 1980s, but found herself unable to get started in her twenties. A galvanizing moment came at Charleston, the English country home of painters Vanessa Bell and Duncan Grant. The house and its furnishings, all painted with simplicity and urgency, inspired her to get started and stop hesitating. She picked up a paintbrush and a camera and didn't look back. Having a daughter also pushed the making of art to the forefront. "Children make art without a critical filter," she says, "and watching that helped me turn off the critic and get to work." She makes art with ink, paint, paper, wood, old papers and canvas.

PAMELA MUNGER

Pamela Munger grew up in southern California and now calls rural western Colorado home. The big sky, mountains and seasons are a constant inspiration for her. "Painting is a lifeline, combining creativity, solitude and limitless possibilities. I'm all about experimentation with paint, surfaces and subject matter. I like to keep it simple, avoiding detail and not giving away the whole story."

Pamela started painting as a creative outlet for her work as an English teacher, which soon grew to a passion. She paints with acrylics, using brushes and palette knives. Pamela and her husband co-own Misty Mountain Hop Farm and she paints full time. If she isn't enjoying the outdoors, you'll find her at her easel.

NATHAN LARSON

Nathan Larson is a Vermont-based photographer and chocolate consumer. For over 20 years he has created work that ranges from fine art photography to landscapes, abstracts, wildlife, and mixed media. He enjoys collaborating with clients to produce the perfect images for their projects and believes the world is a better place with more art in it. "I still use my first camera, though I have added some tools along the way, and I'm still seeking new ways to share visual stories with my audience."
